Speaker Biographies

Jane Gardner, Axion Recycling

Jane Gardner joined resource recovery specialists Axion Consulting in 2005 and since then has developed particular expertise in setting up and running successful industry led collection and recycling trials and schemes. Axion has managed Recofloor, the award winning vinyl take back programme on behalf of flooring manufacturers Altro and Polyflor since its launch in 2009. Axion is also the UK agent for Recovinyl and Jane has been part of the team responsible for setting up the scheme in the UK since its inception.

Jane lives in Bramhall near Manchester and is bilingual in German and English.

Thomas Hülsmann, AGPU

Thomas Hülsmann studied at the University of Osnabrück, Germany materials engineering and graduated in 1988.

Since 1988 Thomas is working in the European PVC-industry. Most of that time he held leading functions at Europe’s No. 1 PVC producer INEOS ChlorVinyls (formerly ICI and EVC) in Technical Service and Environmental Affairs. During this period he was also member of the AGPU Management Board and supported the sustainable development of PVC. Before joining AGPU in 2013 Thomas was Managing Director of a Medium Sized Stabilizer Producer with the focus on Sales and Marketing.

Beside his roles in the industry he took responsibility in positions of various organisations, he was Congress Chairman at the SKZ and held a teaching position at the University of Wilhelmshaven.

Since January 1st 2014 Thomas Hülsmann is Managing Director of AGPU (Arbeitsgemeinschaft PVC und UMWELT e.V.) the German PVC Network association in Bonn.

Roger Mottram, Vinyls Group Chairman

Roger joined ICI in 1984 after graduating with First Class Honours in Materials Science from Bradford University and has worked in the chemicals and polymers industry ever since. Roger’s first involvement with the PVC industry was in 1989 when he was seconded from ICI to European Vinyls Corporation.

Roger has held a variety of technical, commercial and communication roles, but has specialised in environmental and regulatory affairs and sustainable development activities for the PVC industry during the last 16 years. With the coming together of INEOS Chlor and INEOS Vinyls in 2006 the environmental and regulatory affairs role has been extended to cover all chlor-alkali products.

Roger is currently active on many industry committees especially with the BPF, ECVM, PlasticsEurope, EuroChlor and ECSA. A founder member of the BPF Vinyls Group he is now chairman of the group.

Lance Rowell, Architen

Lance Rowell is a founding member of the British tensile fabric industry and Managing Director of Architen Landrell Associates. With experience in working with fabric spanning over 35 years, Lance has been involved in some of the most complex and exciting fabric structures built including the National Football Centre, Will Alsop’s Spiky Pod at the Queen Mary University, U2’s 360 Degree World Tour Stage, the Olympic 2012 Aquatic Centre and Waterpolo Venue, and most recently, the Serpentine Sackler Gallery.
