The 2018 BPF Packaging Seminar will examine the current state of the UK plastics packaging industry, examining solutions to the issues facing our industry as well as the perspectives of a major retailer. This event will feature insightful presentations, panel debates and the chance to network with your peers.

Join us for this important event and listen to presentations from organisations including Wrap, Recoup and Zotefoams.

Who should attend: This seminar is aimed at senior and middle managers from organisations involved in plastics packaging in the UK.

Peter Maddox

Wrap

Peter Maddox is Director of WRAP UK. He has been with WRAP for 10 years, working on developing markets for recycled materials and working closely with Defra on environmental policy. Before WRAP, he spent nearly 20 years working for BP in the chemicals sector in UK and France in research, manufacturing and strategy roles. He has a BA and DPhil in chemistry from the University of Oxford. Outside work, Peter enjoys cycling, reading and real ale.

Barry Turner

British Plastics Federation

Barry has had a varied industrial career initially with the telecoms industry (BT), then Ford Motor company and Vickers. But for the majority of his career he has held senior appointments including as a mainboard director of a UK public quoted packaging company and as a mainboard director of and part owner of venture capital backed packaging companies.

Barry has also been chairman and CEO of trade bodies representing the packaging industry and just over a year ago he merged the membership of PAFA (the Packaging and Films Association) with the packaging members of the BPF (British Plastics Federation) and became the director responsible for that group. Barry lives in North Yorkshire.
